

Sea grasses jeopardize sandbeach

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Hancock County officials meet Tuesday in a last-ditch attempt to salvage part of the beach renourishment program that's been vetoed by the state Bureau of Marine Resources. BMR's action, made public Thursday, lops 1.3 miles from the southernmost stretch of the county's project -- about 22 percent of the entire renourishment program. BMR says ecologically important, submerged sea grasses are growing in the area at issue. The Board of Supervisors was enraged to hear that the agency is barring such a major segment of the program. Supervisor Robert Peterson suggested appealing the ruling to BMR and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, or possibly taking the matter to court. Board President Michael Ladner termed BMR's position "ridiculous." Chancery Clerk

Michael Necaise said the BRM stance would cost taxpayers millions of dollars. Under the newly adopted BMR position, the project will halt near Gulfside Assembly, at Dane Street. Originally, the county had a permit to pump a 200-foot-wide beach from Washington Street southward to the Paddlewheel Motel, about 5.7 miles. A small segment in front of Buccaneer State Park may be allowed. Project engineer William Mitchell told the board that the T.L. James Co. is proceeding so far ahead of schedule with the work, it'll reach the new stopping point in about two weeks. That leaves the county with almost no time to do battle with the state and federal agencies involved. It also may impact the city of Bay St. Louis's plans to "piggy-

Beautification groups urge cleanup in April

BY ELLIS CUEVAS
The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Beautification Committee is urging everyone to participate in some type of cleanup during April. The chamber has adopted the first two miles of Highway 607 from Interstate 10 and have scheduled a cleanup for Saturday, April 23. Chamber members and anyone else who may wish to help are urged to gather at the entrance to the Welcome Center at 8 a.m. Ellis C. Cuevas, chamber beautification chairman said, "This is the first section of highway visitors see when they arrive from the west and that is the reason it was adopted by the chamber."

Clean-up, fix-up, repair, adopt-a-road, trash bash, adopt-a-interchange, adopt-a-block, are many expressions appearing during the month of April. Proclamations by the state's governor, mayors and boards of supervisors are many in reference to clean up. Those who have adopted a street, or road are asked to clean their area during the week of April 18-23 by Robert L. Robinson, Mississippi Department of Transportation executive director. Persons interested in adopting a section of a road or highway, or further information on the cleanup, are urged to call the chamber at 467-9048.

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Hancock County farmers feel they've been "left out in the cold," the Board of Supervisors was told Thursday. The board hopes to improve things by again urging Mississippi State University to assign a fulltime county agent to the cooperative extension program here. As it stands, Hancock and Harrison counties share the services of a single agent. Hancock County farmer John Lee said many Hancock farmers don't even know there's a part-time agent assigned to the county. Lee ran into trouble recently with his watermelon crop, and was told it would be two weeks before the agent could see him. "I'm not ashamed to be down here talking about it," said Lee. "I pay taxes and I don't think we should be left out in the cold."

He said other farmers didn't go to the board, because they didn't think it would do any good. His remarks, however, hit home with the board. Supervisors said they'd been told that Hancock County doesn't have enough acreage under cultivation to warrant a fulltime agent. The county either had to accept a sharing arrangement with Harrison, or have no agent at all, supervisors said. "We're very dissatisfied with our arrangement now," said District 2 Supervisor Alton Kellar. "...We might as well not even have one." Kellar said he's never seen the part-time agent. "Our arrangement with Harrison County has always been that we got the short end of the stick. We've never been able to work with Harrison County" on any joint program, he said.

Magic may try again for apartments

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Casino Magic officials may seek a special exception to city zoning to allow construction of an apartment complex on Blue Meadow Road. A request to rezone a 4.9-acre tract for the project was recommended for rejection Wednesday by the City Planning and Zoning Commission. Traffic on the two-lane route is out of control now, commissioners agreed with opponents of the project. And plans to construct an alternate route, relieving Blue Meadow's burden, have been hung up in negotiations for right-of-way, the commission was told. But Commission Chairman Les Fillingame said during the session that a special exception, rather than permanent rezoning, would give the city more control over the development.

plans. Fillingame joined commissioners Kevin Fitzpatrick, Tom Chapman and Linda Beauregard in voting against the rezoning. Friday, Casino Magic's Greg Bradley said the casino may pursue the special exception route for the proposed complex. The casino's decision is the rezoning. MAGIC--Page 5A

Shoreline Park, Pearlinton sewer projects advance

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Hancock County's Board of Supervisors agreed Thursday to issue some $2.1 million in general obligation bonds for sewerage financing in the unincorporated area.

Most of the money would go to re-finance the existing debt of Wastewater District 1, saving the district an estimated $1.1 million in debt service costs. Officials also included $450,000 in the proposed bond issue to match a $250,000 federal grant to expand sewer lines in Shoreline Park subdivision. Under the plans aired Thursday, revenues from the expansion project and existing customers in the district will be more than enough to pay off the new bonds. If not, the county would levy a special tax on residents of the district only. County officials are considering expanding the district to include the Pearlinton area, and to launch sewer line construction in that area as well. The board agreed to pay $20,000 to engineer Duke Levy for preliminary studies leading to possible grants and loans for

New Bay bus service to begin Tuesday

BY ELLIS CUEVAS
Ribbon cutting is set for 10 a.m. Tuesday by Coast Transit Authority and the City of Bay St. Louis for a new bus route. Mayor Eddie Favre and representatives from the city, chamber and CTA, will participate in the ribbon cutting to be held on Main Street at the bus stop behind City Hall. The new route, Route 52-Bay St. Louis, was designed with the cooperation of the mayor and other city officials. It will operate on a one hour frequency Monday through Friday between the hours of 8 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. The route will be run by a new 20 passenger, wheelchair lift-equipped bus which will provide service to major shopping centers, the Valena C. Jones Complex and the Human Services Department. The new route will enable residents to complete their shopping and other trips within the city, it will not cross the bay bridge. Connections with the Beachcomber Trolley line can be made downtown. For bus or trolley information, call 255-8020. Funding for the purchase and operation of the new service and the trolley already in operation is provided by matching funds from Bay St. Louis and the Federal Transit Administration.

County boosts 'incentive' to seek local medical care

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Hancock County employees will have more "incentive" to use local hospitals and doctors rather than competitors in Louisiana, under action taken Thursday. The Board of Supervisors agreed with recommendations of its insurance plan administrators to lessen the amount the plan pays for medical services at facilities or with doctors not participating in the plan. Employees using Hancock Medical Center or Memorial Hospital at Gulfport -- participating facilities -- have 90 percent of their costs covered by the plan. The plan has paid 80 percent for services at non-participating hospitals and doctors. Under the new rule, it will pay only 70 percent of such costs. The board agreed, however, to "grandfather" some employees from the new rules -- those who were seriously ill and sought medical care outside the plan before the new rule was set. A list of such employees is to be agreed on by the board.

back" the county project. The city recently set aside $500,000 to add a 5,000-foot stretch of sand to the waterfront north of Washington Street to the Highway 90 bridge. T.L. James Co. may demolish and pull out of the area before the city solidifies its part of the project.

Gary Cuevas, BMR's project manager for the beach project, told the board his staff had "agonized" over the decision to shorten the project.

But, he said, the public's best interests are at stake in protecting the "rupia maritima" grasses that have been discovered recently in the renourishment program's path.

Sea grasses are "among the most productive of all marine plant communities, and because they are so rare along our mainland, it is important that they be protected whenever possible," he said in a letter read to the board. (Last month, BMR's contention that the grasses may grow in the future along one segment. Beach Boulevard played a part in rejection of Galaxy's Casino's site by the state Wildlife and Fisheries commission.)

BMR issued its permit for the entire renourishment project in 1991. It was not until January of this year that the agency raised questions about the sea grasses. Cuevas said the grasses only developed after the permit was issued.

And, he said, some BMR staff wanted to delete more areas from the program than were finally deleted.

Peterson - his voice quaking with rage - challenged the contention that the grasses only recently appeared. He said they have been in the area for 10 to 15 years.

He and other supervisors stressed that the main purpose of beach renourishment is to protect the seawall from erosion, thus protecting Beach Boulevard.

BMR offered to help the county design "less impacting" seawall protection measures, such as rip-rap or bulkheading. Cuevas said, however, the agency doesn't have money to help pay for the alternatives.

That would leave the county with a multi-million dollar problem to fix, said officials. They agreed, reluctantly, to notify T.L. James that the contract may be cut short.

The board called for a special meeting with Corps officials on Tuesday morning, and planned to invite the Sand Beach Committee as well. The committee has worked for years to see the program launched.

Despite the board's anger, there was not much talk of going to court. Board Attorney Gerald Gex at one point jokingly referred to "alleged sea grasses." But he told Peterson that while the matter could be litigated, "I don't know that it would do any good ... I think you'd be throwing good money after bad."

that separate project.

In other action, the board refused to authorize payment of some $40,000 to the newly established Solid Waste District that includes the county and the cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland.

The district recently unified garbage collection and disposal throughout the county under contracts with private companies.

But the board was upset to learn that the district wants a $40,000 payment for anticipated administrative costs. Those costs include monthly payments to Compton Engineering and the district's attorney, the board was told.

Supervisor Howard Lizana said the county's original intent was to hire Compton Engineering to launch the program. Now that it's in operation, he said, there's no need to retain engineers or for financing a full-blown "garbage board" to oversee its operations.

Comptroller Patty Greer said some of the upcoming program costs include obtaining permits to keep the county's landfill open.

Other major questions the board raised included why the county is paying for 53 percent of disposal costs of the district, while residents of the unincorporated area only have their refuse picked up once weekly. City residents have twice-weekly collections.

The board set an April 21 workshop to delve further into the district's finances and plans.

Port of Gulfport deep channel dedication held

U.S. Senator Trent Lott and U.S. Representative Gene Taylor joined state and local officials along with representatives from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers at a ceremony which formally dedicated the Port of Gulfport's deeper harbor and ship channel.

"The deepening of the channel at Gulfport is the culmination of more than a decade of efforts," said Lott. "Our deeper channel will allow Mississippi to expand trade with South America and the world and will result in economic growth that will benefit the entire state for many years to come."

Rev. Joy Cyrulik to preach at First Assembly

Rev. Joy Cyrulik will be the guest preacher at the First Assembly of God Church, "The Happy Church," Sunday, May 1, 6 p.m.

The church is located at 1912 Arnold St., Waveland.

Rev. Cyrulik is a member of the Bethesda Ministries.

Gulfport is presently the third largest container-cargo port on the Gulf of Mexico. Only the ports at Houston and New Orleans handle more container cargo.

Stressing Mississippi's role in global economics now that the deepening project is complete, Governor Kirk Fordice said, "The state of Mississippi will now be an even stronger competitor in the arena of international commerce and trade."

Ed Blakeslee, president of the Mississippi State Port Authority's Board of Commissioners, views the port as undergoing a dynamic change because of the deeper channel.

"With the deepening of the channel, I feel the port is poised at a crossroad. We have basically moved from being a medium sized business to being a big business," said Blakeslee.

Federal funding made up 75 percent of the deepening project's $40 million cost with local funding making up the remaining 25 percent. The actual dredging of container and wood product ship berths to 36 feet were completed with State Port funding.

QUOTABLE QUOTES

By Ellis C. Cuevas

It is interesting to see that St. Stanislaus' senior class, under the direction of Dr. Marco Giardino, will be working under the old oak tree at the site of the old Back School.

Rip University, Back School, St. Stanislaus Free Day School and St. Stanislaus Day School were among some of the names of the school.

Grades were from first through seventh and sometimes eighth with a total of two Brothers for about 100 students.

I started in the first grade at the Day School in September 1940 and left there in May of 1948. Between myself and three younger brothers, we had a total of 29 years at the facility.

I can recall several years ago when I helped Brother Aquin gather a group of the former students of the Back School for an alumni meeting, and it turned out very well.

I know and have known many of the former students at the school located in the second block of Bookter Street behind St. Stanislaus.

When I first attended the school there was an out-house in use.

We got 'uptown' a few years later with indoor plumbing.

Mr. Pops Seuzeneaux and Mr. Tony Piazza (the barber) were two folks I knew well who attended school at The Rip before the turn of the century.

Many of Bay St. Louis' business leaders attended the school.

I have many memories of my grammar school education at The Rip.

The old oak tree seemed to have been twice the size it is now when I was a student.

The grounds under the tree were without grass and full of 'gip joints.'

Many a marble was won and lost in games under the old oak tree.

The number of top split is unknown.

There was sure a 'no, no' on swinging on the limbs, and in case someone forgot, they only did it one time. I guess the recovery time it required to be able to sit in a chair was a longtime reminder.

Heat was supplied by a big pot-bellied heater in each class.

The Brothers had a large woodshed, and the older students even cut firewood.

In addition to the memories from The Back School, I still have my fourth and sixth grade readers.

The school and depot areas were really the center of Bay St. Louis' activities in those bygone days.

It will be interesting to see what they find under the old oak tree, maybe a marble of mine, or the point of one of my tops.

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

Republican Party still gaining strength in state

As one who some 40 years ago began encouraging development of a viable Republican Party in Mississippi to challenge Democrats, I may have done a better job than I intended to.

The numbers which have been coming in from opinion sampling of likely voters the past few years confirm that a dramatic shift has taken place among Mississippians who formerly identified themselves as Democrats to now regard themselves as Republicans.

In fact, from an analysis of data collected in the 1992 poll conducted by the Mississippi State University political science department, Prof. Stephen D. Shaffer, who directed the poll, concludes that more than a majority—52 percent—of Mississippi white adults now regard themselves as Republicans.

At the same time, the number of adult whites calling themselves Democrats, he says, is down to 37 percent.

But when the black population of the state, representing 36 percent of the state total—80 percent of whom identify as Democrats—is factored into the political mix, the Democrats numerically are at a virtual standoff with the Republicans. Thus, says Shaffer, the Democrats in Mississippi can't be counted out.

The proper combination of blacks and whites who remain loyal to the Democrats, as was proven in the 1987 gubernatorial race, can produce a Democratic winner. It only works, however, when there is a high voter turnout among blacks and hardcore Democrats to offset the usual heavy white adult turnout.

Shaffer says that Democrats still have an edge among lower socio-economic level whites, among persons over 60, and among what he calls "middle of the road" whites (those slightly to the right of the less-numerous self-identified "liberals").

There is little question, the MSU professor says, that the popularity of President Reagan and President Bush was quite persuasive in changing an increasing number of Mississippians to think of themselves as Republicans during the 1980s.

In 1982, Republicans outnumbered Democrats only among Mississippians who were college educated and had an income over $30,000, the MSU pollster said. But in 10 years, as shown by the 1992 poll, Republicans had made deep inroads into the $20,000-$30,000 and the high school-educated groups, overtaking the Democrats in those categories.

MSU polls in the early and mid-1980s had begun to reflect the decline of Democratic allegiance and the rise of pro-Republican sentiment that reached the apparent GOP-Democratic parity evidenced in the 1992 poll.

Shaffer concedes that the "Ross Perot factor" was considerably underestimated by the MSU pollsters in their 1992 survey, and resulted in the researchers projecting Bush with more support at the polls in Mississippi than he wound up with. (It will be recalled that Bush got 49.6 percent, Bill Clinton 41 percent and Perot 9 percent.)

The partisan gains made by the Republicans in Mississippi over the last 10 or 12 years, Shaffer says "obviously made possible the election of popular Republicans who decades ago would not have been elected in a state dominated by 'Yellow-dog Democrats'."

These GOP gains in the political party philosophies of Mississippians also help to explain the historic election of a Republican governor—Kirk Fordice, and lieutenant governor, Eddie Briggs—in 1991, according to the MSU political scientist. Thus, he says, you can't wholly attribute the Fordice-Briggs election in 1991 to an anti-incumbency trend or economic conditions at the time.

To be closely watched in political circles is the upcoming 1994 statewide opinion poll the MSU political science department expects to complete and make public in May.

It will evaluate, among other things, Mississippians' attitudes toward their first Republican governor this century, and towards the first Democratic president in over 2 years, and whether or not last decade's rise of Republican sentiment in the state continues or has topped out.

One thing is certain: Democrats can no longer live in the past. The Republican threat is here and it is real.

IN CONGRESS

By Rep. Gene Taylor

Taylor votes for Whitewater hearings

The U.S. House of Representatives has agreed, 408 to 15, to investigate allegations of wrongdoing surrounding Whitewater, announced U.S. Rep. Gene Taylor.

"For right or wrong, I have always told the people of South Mississippi that I would be a bipartisan elected official," said Taylor after casting his vote to hold the hearings. "We need to resolve this issue and then get on with the country's business."

Ranked as one of the House's more fiscally responsible members, Taylor said his only difficulty with the vote was the unlimited cost the hearings could entail.

"The vote was difficult solely from the perspective that the country is in dire straits, and looking back on the Iran-Contra investigation, something like $30 million was spent. I'm sure this will be very expensive, but I do think that the public does deserve to know," Taylor said.

The House resolution instructed House leaders to negotiate an appropriate time and place to begin the hearings. The resolution instructed leaders to "determine the appropriate timetable, procedures and forum for appropriate congressional oversight."

Witnesses would most likely appear before a House Banking Committee hearing to review operations of the savings and loan cleanup agency. No immunity would be granted to witnesses, and hearings would not compete with special counsel Robert Fiske's criminal probe.

Taylor said he has been busier than usual this year while the House Armed Services Committee, of which he is a member, wrestles with the shrinking national defense budget. He admits he isn't "as knowledgeable on Whitewater as most citizens watching the news."

But Taylor said his concern increased with the guilty plea of former Arkansas municipal judge David Hale. Hale pleaded guilty to two fraud charges involving the operation of his federally backed lending company.

"I've only gotten a few phone calls and letters in regard to Whitewater, but nationwide there is great interest," said Taylor. "We can no longer ignore Whitewater."

Top ten things you should know about Social Security

By Caril V. Stephens
Social Security Manager in Gulfport

With apologies to Dave Letterman, here are the top ten things you should know about Social Security.

Number 10: Your Social Security benefit is based on your earnings, so make sure your employer is using your correct name and Social Security number when reporting your earnings to the government.

Number 9: Social Security is more than retirement. Disability coverage for people who can't work for a year or more and survivors benefits for the family members of a worker who has died are important and often overlooked parts of Social Security.

Number 8: When you work, you earn Social Security "credits," up to a maximum of four per year. Most people need 40 credits (10 years of work) to qualify for retirement benefits. Younger people need fewer credits for disability and survivors coverage.

Number 7: Social Security provides benefits to qualified family members of retired and disabled workers. Generally, children under 18 can get checks and so can a spouse who's 62 or older or who's caring for a minor child. In many cases, divorced spouses also get benefits.

Number 6: You can get an estimate of your Social Security benefits and a copy of your earnings history by calling 1-800-772-1213.

Number 5: Check with Social Security about a year before you plan to retire. In some cases, you can get retirement benefits even before you stop working.

Number 4: When you file for retirement benefits, we need to see a certified copy of your birth certificate and your last W-2 form (or tax return if you're self-employed).

Number 3: Social Security should not be directly compared to private savings and pension programs because "social" objectives are a fundamental part of Social Security. For example, workers with low incomes get a benefit that represents a higher percentage of their earnings than do well-paid workers.

Number 2: You should not expect to live on your Social Security. The program was always intended to supplement, not replace, private pension plans and other savings and investments.

Number 1: Social Security will be there when you need it. Social Security has changed a lot in the last 60 years and it undoubtedly will change in the next 60 years... but a basic program that provides benefits to retired people, to people with disabilities, and to the survivors of a worker who has died will always be the foundation of our society's income maintenance network.

Legend smokes Cooper

World Boxing Council Continental Americas Heavyweight champion Larry 'The Legend' Donald, white trucks, stopped 'Smokin' Bert Cooper with a seventh round TKO, Thursday night at Casino Magic in Bay St. Louis. Donald dominated throughout the fight to remain undefeated at 14-0 with 11 KOs. The event was televised nationally over the ESPN network. Cooper's record fell to 36-13 when the fight was stopped because his left eye was swollen shut, leaving him defenseless against Donald's punches with 1:16 remaining in the seventh. expected next week, before the rezoning matter heads to city council for action, April 19.

The rezoning issue drew about 50 opponents to the commission's meeting, all upset over the prospect of additional traffic on Blue Meadow. The tract at issue is on the west side of the street, diagonally across from Bay High School.

The road not only serves the school, but also is a key route to the bustling casino. Putting a 100-unit apartment complex between the school and Casino Magic Drive, as planned, would only worsen a bad situation, the opponents said.

Plans for the project were presented by Don Clark of Brown & Mitchell engineering. He drew hostile chuckles from the audience when he said the development wouldn't impact traffic.

Some in the audience suggested that the casino owns plenty of other property on which to locate the facility with less impact. They said Blue Meadow traffic has mushroomed to nightmarish proportions already, posing a safety hazard for students and residents of the area.

A petition with 91 signatures opposing the development was presented by the Jourdan River Isles Improvement Association. Richard Johnson said while the residential area is outside the city limits, its residents frequently travel Blue Meadow. "We are very, very concerned about the traffic," he said.

Bradley said Friday the spot at issue was chosen because similar housing is in the vicinity. The main purpose of the proposed complex is to boost accommodations for casino employees.

And, he said, the casino still is hopeful of building a new access route from Highway 90 to Casino Magic Drive, taking traffic off Blue Meadow.

Chapter I plans meeting

The public is invited to a planning meeting for the 1994-95 Chapter I program for the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District at 2 p.m. Tuesday, April 19 in the Central Office board room on Carroll Avenue, Bay St. Louis.

resident Gloria Rosato brought applause to the room when she delivered a fiery speech of opposition to the complex. She said if more local workers were hired at the casino, there wouldn't be a need for new apartments.

Some commission members voiced mixed emotions about the proposal, even as they voted it down. They agreed that traffic along the route is bad, but also that there's a dire need for additional housing in the city.

Fillingame said there would be more local workers at the casino -- if they had places to live.

He said that overall, the audience presented a picture of opposition linked to the fact that the proposal has 'Casino Magic's name attached to it. "Hopefully, we can all be more objective," he said as the commission began its deliberations.

He said the site at issue might well be suited for an apartment complex, perhaps less dense than 100 units, if traffic is brought under control. He suggested tabling the proposal indefinitely, or considering a smaller-scale development under a special exception to the existing zoning for R-1.

Fitzpatrick made the motion to reject the rezoning, saying there is too much traffic on Blue Meadow and too much uncertainty about how traffic will be handled in the future. He had asked Clark about negotiations for the new route's right-of-way, and was told that negotiations were bogged down.

"To this date, I can't tell you where the road is going," said Clark.

Richard Stechmann, whose family owns a huge tract between Highway 90 and Casino Magic, said the negotiations are on-going for access route through his property. "We're willing to do our part... We've offered real workable solutions," Stechmann said.

He and other members of the Stechmann family, however, voiced opposition to the apartment complex.

If City Council rejects the rezoning request, it cannot be reconsidered for a year. If a special exception route were taken, the commission and council would have vast controls over the size and nature of the development.

Service Officers School held in Waveland

On Thursday and Friday, March 24-25, your county veterans service officer sponsored the first Service Officers School for 1994.

Many interesting and informative topics were discussed, including proper procedures for filing various claims with the regional office in Jackson—initial claims for pension/compensation, aid and attendance, appeals, power of attorney for veterans affairs, eligibility verification reports, unreimbursed medical expenses, etc.

These workshops are held about every three months. The next one will be June 2 and 3 in Tupelo.

I wish to take this opportunity to thank Bourgeois-Stiefel-Ray Post 77 in Waveland for letting us use its facilities for the workshop, and for the donation of coffee and fresh donuts each morning.

Special thanks to Legionnaires Lawrence Freeman, Bob McClure and John Perkins for helping to set up the meeting room. Also, thanks to John for having that coffee made before the first arrivals.

Our many participants and instructors from all over the southern area of the state were well pleased with the accommodations.

Thanks are also in order for the use of the 16mm projector and screen from Coast Electric, and to Bill Lady and Waveland Resort Inn for the cut rate on the rooms.

Last, but not least, thanks to Cindy Vernon and her helpers at the Chamber of Commerce for the very informative hospitality packets. I'm sure that the participants/visitors made good use of the brochures about our beautiful Gulf Coast and Bay-Waveland area especially.

By the way, this workshop was originally scheduled to be held in McComb, but no one wanted to go there.

Claims Division director James Young called and asked if I could sponsor it. When I inquired as to whether the casinos influenced the change, he chuckled and replied, "You guessed it."

Finally, thanks to all who not only read my periodic column, but also for telling me so when I see you.

I hope to have some more Questions and Answers soon on veterans affairs.

Meanwhile, if I can be of help, I can be reached at 467-2100 from 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

BREWER'S WORLD

By Jimmie Brewer

Vacation Jollies

Hardly my fine, well-fed, newly-tanned newspaper-reading Gulf Coastians. Welcome once again to my world. Wow, you folks are actually reading this column.

Could it be, could it actually be that time of year for those annual exotic vacations? You know the ones I'm talking about. The ones where you cram seven people in a station wagon, drag the kids all the way across country to meet two old people they don't know called Grandma and Grandpa.

It's the trip when your dad's right arm grows three feet long and sweeps back and forth through the back seat like an octopus' tentacle searching for its next victim.

It's those trips where you wish you had taken your mom's advice and went to the bathroom BEFORE you left. You see, that octopus in the front seat does not like to interrupt such a pleasant trip for such trivial things as relieving one's bladder. Besides, Mom has brought along a perfectly good empty five-quart coffee can for such occasions.

It's those trips when the kids start asking, "Are we almost there?" as soon as you're out of the sight of your home and then repeat the question every five minutes until your arrival.

You know, those vacations where the car reeks of fried chicken and Cheetos. Those trips where the car begins to take on the look of one of those BFI dumpsters on wheels.

Oh what fun it's gonna be. You travelers out there be safe, and please be considerate of weak bladders.

Okay, it's time for an update on my golf game. I was on the course yesterday, standing on the 18th green. A cool breeze was soothing my fair skin. I had been in a battle all day with the Paradise Golf Pro Phil Hill.

He was going into the last hole at two under par and had sliced his second shot on the 18th to the edge of the woods by the cart path.

I was coming into the par 4 18th hole at one under par, and using a 5 iron from 160 yards, I laid my second shot a short "pin high" two feet from the hole.

A birdie would assure me the hole and the match.

The stakes were high. If I put it in, I become the next golf pro of Paradise and Phil Hill becomes the Sea Coast Echo's circulation manager.

I coolly and confidently step up to the ball for my final shot. There was not a sound to be heard. I tap the ball perfectly, as I had done all day.

The ball was heading for the middle of the cup when I heard that horrible sound, the annoying sound only an alarm clock can make when it brings folks back to reality.

Praise for do-gooders this week goes out to all those kids who "just say no!" Keep it up kids. Stay off the dope and you'll go places.

Okay, now everybody put down your coffee cups, wipe the toast crumbs off your mouth, and repeat after me:

"I will have fun today! I will do something nice today. I will be sensitive of other people's and animals' feelings."

Now go out, and do it. Peace.

Diamondhead Rotary Club

Three students in their junior year at Hancock High School were selected to receive Rotary Youth Leadership awards. The awards were announced by Jesse W. Stonecipher, president of Diamondhead Rotary, at a luncheon meeting where the students and their parents were guests.

Students named for the awards are Laura Tate, daughter of Ed and Lynn Tate of Diamondhead; Jason Ruddell, son of Dian and Eric Ross of Diamondhead; and Kane McCraney, son of Sheila and Daryl McCraney of Leetown.

The students were selected by a Rotary committee composed of Gary Wiley, Gloria Dupree and Jennifer Gonzalas.

The students will join other awardees from the 48 Rotary clubs of south Mississippi and south Louisiana for a week-long seminar at Loyola University in New Orleans in July.

The students will be fed and quartered in university facilities, and the cost will be borne by sponsoring Rotary Clubs. The seminar will be divided between educational and social activities.

Students will meet and interact with successful business and professional leaders who will share their skills with the awardees. Upon completion of the seminar, the students will return to report their experiences to their hosting Rotary Club.

Kiwanis/Key Clubs

The Kiwanis of Hancock County, along with Kiwanis Clubs and Key Clubs in Bay St. Louis, Picayune, Orange Grove, Biloxi Kessler Field and Pensacola are conducting a food drive to benefit the Salvation Army Food Pantry.

The Kiwanis Clubs and Key Clubs will man grocery carts at the entrance of all major food stores in Picayune, Waveland, Bay St. Louis, Pass Christian, Long Beach, Orange Grove, Gulfport, Biloxi, d'Iberville, Ocean Springs, Gautier, Pascagoula and Moss Point from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday, April 30.

The clubs are helping to restock the Salvation Army's Food Kitchen after one of the longest and coldest winters in the past 25 years.

A spokesman for the clubs said the Salvation Army is always there when they are needed, and the clubs want to be there when the Salvation Army is in need.

Shoppers are encouraged to pitch in and help.
